The Evolution Jewels - Geometry Connection

or How Evolution Jewels Work

©2004, by Bev Sue Powers, Evolution Jewels™ founder & president

Evolution Jewels uses geometry and math in all designs. Why? Because at the core of every atom, making up everything we see, think and feel, energy flows in an unexplainable vibration through geometric patterns repeated over and over. Energy is at the base of all life form. In essence, geometry represents the patterns through which all life energy flows and by which all form is constructed. In the midst of the current unprecedented times of intense new levels of universal, planetary, and social changes, people clearly need new ways of understanding and relating to each other and the world at large. We also need new tools to help us maintain balance and a sense of security while these monumental shifts take place.

Evolution Jewels were created to give people tactile, tangible tools to strengthen their sense of balance and inner-security during these tumultuous, but exciting times. In addition to being fine jewelry, the designs introduce the wearer to different aspects of recognizing and working with vibrational patterns in order to create a desired state of resonance. How? Each design represents an energetic pattern of life force at the atomic and subatomic levels. If that same pattern of energy was the same size as the jewelry, it (the pattern of energy) would be so strong it would instantly obliterate us and everything else around us. Putting these patterns in the physical form of precious metals recreates the energetic patterns, but at a much more tolerably subtle level of influence that we can handle. At the physical level, these same mathematical patterns reflect and put in motion the precise timing and mathematical ratios of natural cycles and growth. In other words, these patterns connect us energetically and tangibly more closely with the growth, rhythm, and timing patterns of all physical form.

The shifts in universal and planetary resonance now in progress have triggered unheard of social and personal changes. It is important to understand that these shifts are also triggering changes at the energetic core of our being. Wearing Evolution Jewels helps the wearer more easily and quickly release the old patterns of resonance and more easily and quickly align with the newly emerging patterns of resonance. In other words, wearing Evolution Jewels helps you transition safely to a new era. Once there, a world of discovery awaits you. As your discoveries unfold and you evolve, Evolution Jewels enhances your ability to create new ways of relating with and understanding this new world. Use Evolution Jewels to support you and celebrate through a lifetime of discoveries in this new era!
